THE LINCOLN STAR

Health Council's Flip-Flop Leaves Many Surprised

By BOB GUENTHER and CYNTHIA JOHNSON Star Staff Writers

"It is recommended that the (Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council) SeNHPC Board of Directors encourage experimental programs such as . . health maintenance organizations in southeast Nebraska as alternative mechanisms for financing ambulatory health services, including prevention services."

—from the "Ambulatory Health Services Plan," adopted May 8, 1975 by the SeNHPC board of directors

If that's what SeNHPC board members' thinking was about health maintenance organizations (HMOs) on May 8, where were their heads on Sept. 18, 1975?

That's the question being posed by many who were taken by surprise when the SeNHPC board voted Sept. 18 against the continuation of a Lincoln-Lancaster County HMO project which has been in the works for more than a year.

An HMO, a prepaid medical group plan, offers an alternative to conventional health insurance. Basically, consumers enroll in an HMO for a monthly fee which entitles them to receive care from doctors and nurses contracting with the HMO.

HMO advocates say such a system can help rein in galloping health care costs by encouraging persons to seek preventive medical care as well as making health care more responsive to consumers.

Long Record Of Success

Although the idea is relatively new to this part of the country, HMOs have been around since before World War II. HMOs in Washington, D.C., New York, Seattle, Wash., and Los Angeles have a long-standing record of success.

A local, non-profit organization comprised of consumers interested in seeing an HMO in Lincoln-Lancaster County was formed early in 1974. Known as the Community Health Care Association, Inc. (CHCA), the organization, with the help of a federal grant, conducted a feasibility study which CHCA says indicates that an HMO could work here.

It was CHCA's application for a second-stage, or planning, grant from the federal government that met with SeNHPC opposition last month.

Under federal law, SeNHPC was required to review and comment on the grant request, and submit a recommendation to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). Much Support Voiced

At a public hearing on the issue, support for the project is voiced by among others, two insurance firms (R)ne Cross... Blue Shield and Bankers Life). Letters of support were received from Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., Mayor Helen Boosalis, two city council members, one Lancaster County commissioner and a number of industrial firms, governmental agencies and labor unions.

A SeNHPC task force assigned to study the request, as well as the council's staff, recommended that the SeNHPC board vote in favor of the request.

But, for the first time ever, the board rejected a task force report. The vote was 11 to 3 with 5 abstentions. There are 42 members on the board.

Six of those who voted against the HMO were health care providers—a group often antagonistic towards HMOs.

Those voting against included. Jack Stiles, executive director of St Etizabeth Health Center, E.G. Edwards, Bryan Memorial Hospital president, Dr. Richard Marshall, Lincoln dentist, Phil Fisher, administrator of St. Mary's Hospital in Nebraska City. Dr. Roger Jacobs, Seward physician, and M. A. Hartman. York pharmacist. Others who opposed the HMO were Richard Stehly, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, Bill Johnston, Lincoln attorney; Darrel Buettow, associate coordinator of the Nebraska Regional Medical Program; Les Souba, David City banker, and George Barber, Beatrice businessman. Affirmative votes were cast by Sue Scott, homemaker; Margrethe Ahlschwede homemaker and Harry Allen, director of institutional research and planning for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

'No Way' To Explain It

"There is really no way that you can explain the reasoning behind the vote of the board . . . based on past action, based on policies" previously adopted, said Don Nielsen, president of CHCA and also a member of the SeNHPC board (he abstained from the vote because of his affiliation with CHCA).

"Establishment" opposition to HMOs is frequently based upon what is seen as the threat of socialized medicine, competition with free enterprise and loss of doctor independence. Opponents of the Lincoln HMO also questioned the financial feasibility of the project, and they noted a lack of support on the part of community physicians.

HMO proponents point out that the HMO is a means of preventing socialized medicine, that free enterprise insurance companies support HMOs as a means of keeping a lid on medical costs, and that doctors and consumers don't have to join if they don't want to. They also say that the potential financial and physician-related barriers are not insurmoun-

Task force chairperson Sue Scott was disappointed that the pros and cons of the HMO concept were debated at the board meeting. SeNHPC has previously endorsed the concept, she said; and the evaluation should have been made "on the basis of whether it (the grant request) was technically correct"

(in keeping with federal guidelines). SeNHPC executive director Bill Joern disagreed, saying, "It's their (the board's) responsibility to discuss an item as they see it."

Suter Surprised

Jim Suter, director of the State Comprehensive Health Planning (CHP) Office, expressed surprise at the vote. The CHP council endorsed the task force report unanimously.

"I very strongly endorse it (the project)," Suter said. "There is just no question that the concept of prepaid medical care (HMO) . . . is going to be present . . . in the future," said Nielsen, who has requested that the issue be reconsidered at the next SeNHPC board meeting.

"We (CHCA) believe that the sooner we get started (in HMO development), the more carefully it's studied, the more consumer input there is," the better off Lincoln will be.

"We have a good (health care) system in Lincoln, and we're meeting the needs of the people quite well," he continued. But the main issue is "what we are going to be facing tomorrow and years down the road. If the health care delivery system does not become responsive to the needs and the desires of the consumer," a governmentally regulated system is apt to result.

Police said two booby-trapped fire extinguishers were discovered filled with diesel fuel and there were reports of fire trucks found with water in their gas tanks.

There have been no serious fires and no lose of life in fires since the strike by more than 800 city fire fighters began Friday.

BOND . . . calls for 'coalition of needs.'

Bond Advocates

Star Staff Writer

The remedy for unresponsive government is a "national coalition of needs" united politically against a system "closed to forgotten and unrepresented members of society," Julian Bond said Sunday night.

"The reins of national government have been seized by a national coalition of the comfortable, callous and smug — men with an arrogant contempt for people and their problems," the nationally known Georgia state senator said.

That coalition should be opposed by a coalition of the forgotten ones — vouths, blacks. women, dissatisfied laborers which will "create a system of laws and relationships that promises more than the present system of privilege for only a few," he said.

Failure Possible

The 35-year-old Bond, who achieved national prominence at the 1968 Democratic National Convention when he became the first black to be nominated for vice president, told approximately 300 students at the Nebraska Union that the coalition he envisions may fail just as the activism of the 1960s failed.

"A major political movement came to near maturity in the 1960s, but that movement became partially the victim of its own success," he said. "It failed to sustain and extend itself. It saw itself dissipated by struggles on the edge."

The new coalition is without a leader, Bond said, and suffers from split allegiances that weaken its potential.

Bond was a part of the activism of the 1960s. He helped found the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in 1965, was exceed to the Georgia House of Representatives where he served four terms and spoke forcefully against the war in Vietnam.

Amidst the confusion of the 1960s, "picking up beer cans at the side of the highway became a substitute for winning jobs for blacks at the brewery," he said. Blacks Still Disadvantaged

While blacks gained the right to sit, eat, ride and vote as they wished their infant mortality rate remained twice that for whites, the average black male dies seven years earlier than his white counterpart and "a black college graduate stands a great chance of earning less money over a lifetime than a white high school dropout," Bond said.

"While our general position has improved, our relative position has gotten worse," he said. "It's like climbing a molasses mountain in snowshoes while the rest ride the skylift to the

To combat this, the new coalition should fight for income and wealth redistribution, the elimination of poverty through full employment, a system of education stressing both vocational and academic training, national heatlh care financed through the national treasury and control of monopolies, he said.

'SLA Lives On!'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new communique says "The SLA lives on!" and promises to show its existence, and a source close to the investigation of the terrorist group say some members may remain unknown and at large. The communique, signed

"Symbionese Liberation Army" and dropped during the weekend in three California cities, denied the FBI's statement that the arrests of Patricia Hearst and her companions had put an end to the group. The FBI said there was no way to determine immediately if the document was authentic. But In Los Angeles, Special Agent R.E. Russell added, "We're going to handle it as though it is. We take all these things seriously."

Following the arrest of Miss Hearst and her companions, an FBI spokesman here said, "We feel that as far as known members of the SLA are concerned, the back has been broken, but they always will have sympathizers." But the source close to the investigation said, "What the FBI says is asinine. There were about 28 SLA code names (found in one early SLA hideout).

"Only 11 of the SLA names have been accounted for," he said. "Six are dead. Two are in prison. Then there's Patty and Emily and Bill Harris.

Meanwhile, Miss Hearst's attorney's said Sunday that a hearing on her ability to withstand questioning has been put off one day, until Wednesday, at the request of psychiatrists who have been examining her. And attorney F. Lee Bailey said the state of her mind would be the most important element in the

developments:

-Martin Soliah said it was his tip to the FBI that led authorities to his son, Steven, and from him to the Hearst and Harris arrests.

-Miss Hearst's father, Randolph, discounted published reports that his daughter was being given antipsychotic drugs. Randolph and Catherine Hearst visited their daughter in jail for about an hour and 45 minutes Saturday but refused to say what was discussed.

The typed messages signed "Symbionese Liberation Army" were left Saturday in public locations for news media in San Francisco, San Diego and Los Angeles. The communiques called on the "Weather Underground and Other Comrades in Arms" for "military assistance."

Investigators who privately said the SLA still existed added that they don't know exactly how many SLA members remain active. They point out that some may have dropped out because of publicity generated during Patty Hearst's 19 months underground or because of disenchantment with SLA methods.

But authorities are reported to be seeking at least five persons for questioning about SLA activities.

Two persons sought are Kathy and Josephine Soliah - sisters of Steven Soliah, the man charged with harboring Miss Hearst. Also wanted are James Kilgore, who has been linked to an SLA bank robbery in Carmichael, Calif., last April; Bonnie Wilder, whose belongings reportedly were found in the Harris apartment, and Margaret Turcich, a friend and former coworker of Kathy Soliah.

Socialists Win Majority In Austrian Parliament

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Chancellor Bruno Kreisky's Socialist party won an absolute majority in Austria's parliamentary elections Sunday, the Interior Ministry announced.

The ministry said the Socialists won 94 seats in the 183seat parliament, a gain of one seat over their current strength. Officials said absentee ballots could alter the final makeup of parliament by one or two seats, but the Socialists' absolute majority was assured.

The Christian Democrat Austrian People's party took 78 seats, two less than in the last elections four years ago. The Freedom party went from 10 to 11 seats.

The People's party, under former banker Josef Taus, 42, had sought to recapture the political dominance it held from 1945 to 1970, when it yielded control to a minority Socialist government. The Socialists won an outright majority in 1971 and formed a government without coalition help. The Communists, who have held no seat in parliament for 20 years, failed to make a significant showing in the polls and took no seats.

developments:

-Martin Soliah said it was his tip to the FBI that led authorities to his son, Steven, and from him to the Hearst and Harris arrests.

-Miss Hearst's father, Randolph, discounted published reports that his daughter was being given antipsychotic drugs. Randolph and Catherine Hearst visited their daughter in jail for about an hour and 45 minutes Saturday but refused to say what was discussed.

The typed messages signed "Symbionese Liberation Army" were left Saturday in public locations for news media in San Francisco, San Diego and Los Angeles. The communiques called on the "Weather Underground and Other Comrades in Arms' for "military assistance." Investigators who privately said the SLA still existed added that they don't know exactly how many SLA members remain active. They point out that some may have dropped out because of publicity generated during Patty Hearst's 19 months underground or because of disenchantment with SLA methods.

But authorities are reported to be seeking at least five persons for questioning about SLA activities.

Two persons sought are Kathy and Josephine Soliah - sisters of Steven Soliah, the man charged with harboring Miss Hearst. Also wanted are James Kilgore, who has been linked to an SLA bank robbery in Carmichael, Calif., last April; Bonnie Wilder, whose belongings reportedly were found in the Harris apartment, and Margaret Turcich, a friend and former coworker of Kathy Soliah.

BN Recalling 100 Workers

DENVER (AP)—Burlington Northern says it's recalling 100 workers to repair locomotives at company shops in several areas, including Lincoln and Alliance, Neb.

Others are Burlington, Iowa; Livingston and Havre, Mont.; Vancouver, Wash., and Minneapolis.

Norman Lorentzsen, the road's transportion divison president at Denver, said the workers were needed because of a high level of grain and coal He said the firm also has increased hiring to maintain and upgrade its lines serving western coal The firm announced monthly records for grain movement in August and September. The road set records of 91.1 million bushels in August and 91.3 million bushels in September.

The previous record was 84.9 million bushels, set in November of 1974.

Lorentszen said if the grain loadings continue at the 90-million bushel per month level throughout the last quarter, the road will surpass its second best year of 1974.

In that year, it loaded a total of 837.2 million

BOND . . . calls for 'coalition of needs.'

The remedy for unresponsive government is a "national coalition of needs" united politically against a system "closed to forgotten and unrepresented members of society," Julian Bond said Sunday night.

"The reins of national government have been seized by a national coalition of the comfortable, callous and smug - men with an arrogant contempt for people and their problems," the nationally known Georgia state senator said.

That coalition should be opposed by a coalition of the forgotten ones — youths, blacks, women, dissatisfied laborers which will "create a system of laws and relationships that promises more than the present system of privilege for only a few," he said.

Failure Possible

The 35-year-old Bond, who achieved national prominence at the 1968 Democratic National Convention when he became the first black to be nominated for vice president, told approximately 300 students at the Nebraska Union that the coalition he envisions may fail just as the activism of the 1960s failed. "A major political movement came to near maturity in the 1960s, but that movement became partially the victim of its own success," he said. "It failed to sustain and extend itself. It saw itself dissipated by struggles on the edge.

The new coalition is without a leader, Bond said, and suffers from split allegiances that weaken its potential.

Bond was a part of the activism of the 1960s. He helped found the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in 1965, was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives where he served four terms and spoke forcefully against the war in Vietnam.

Amidst the confusion of the 1960s, "picking up beer cans at the side of the highway became a substitute for winning jobs for blacks at the brewery," he said. Blacks Still Disadvantaged

While blacks gained the right to sit, eat, ride and vote as they wished, their infant mortality rate remained twice that for whites, the average black male dies seven years earlier than his white counterpart and "a black college graduate stands a great chance of earning less money over a lifetime than a white high school dropout," Bond said.

"While our general position has improved, our relative position has gotten worse," he said. "It's like climbing a molasses mountain in snowshoes while the rest ride the skylift to the Bond said the nation's greatest problem has become "a combination of race and economic chaos. Goals Listed

To combat this, the new coalition should fight for income and wealth redistribution, the elimination of poverty through full employment, a system of education stressing both vocational and academic training, national heatlh care financed through the national treasury and control of monopolies, he said.

Socialists Win Majority In Austrian Parliament

VIENNA, Austria (AP) -Chancellor Bruno Kreisky's Socialist party won an absolute majority in Austria's parliamentary elections Sunday, the Interior Ministry announced.

The ministry said the Socialists won 94 seats in the 183seat parliament, a gain of one seat over their current strength. Officials said absentee ballots could alter the final makeup of parliament by one or two seats, but the Socialists' absolute majority was assured.

The Christian Democrat Austrian People's party took 78 seats, two less than in the last elections four years ago. The Freedom party went from 10 to 11 seats.

The People's party, under former banker Josef Taus, 42, had sought to recapture the political dominance it held from 1945 to 1970, when it yielded control to a minority Socialist government. The Socialists won an outright majority in 1971 and formed a government without coalition help.

The Communists, who have held no seat in parliament for 20 years, failed to make a significant showing in the polls and took no seats.

Blast Kills 3 Spanish Guardsmen

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A remote controlled bomb blew up a Civil Guard jeep Sunday in the Basque country of northern Spain, killing three guardsmen and wounding two, authorities reported Sunday.

The blast twisted the jeep through the air and hurled it 20 yards. Policemen aged 20, 25 and 27 died instantly, and two others, aged 27 and 29, were gravely injured, the Guard

The ambush was believed to have been the work of Basque separatist guerrillas taking revenge for the execution of two comrades executed eight days ago.

The Spanish cabinet began an emergency session Monday morning to discuss spreading guerrilla violence. The session was scheduled before the roadside explosion Sunday.

Civil Guard headquarters said the explosion occurred at 1:45 p.m. a mile from Aranzazu, 60 miles west of San' Sebastian, a Basque guerrilla stronghold near the French border.

The deaths raised to 38 the death toll in political violence in Spain since January 1974 — 24 of the victims were policemen, 14 civilians.

The Spanish government, meanwhile, hailed the new military agreement with the United States as "an affirmation of friendship" that will help Gen. Francisco Franco's regime "in a moment of extraordinary importance. Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina said the new military agreement said the U.S. military presence in Spain "has importance in this moment because there has not been interference (by the United States) in our political situation.'

The U.S.-Spanish agreement stood out in contrast to attacks by European Common Market nations and the Soviet Bloc over Spain's execution eight days ago of five men convicted of killing policemen.

A Spanish Socialist described the agreement as "all propaganda and no pride. Spain would sign at any price because the United States is the only blanket it has."

Plots To Kill Fidel Spanned Three Presidencies, Church Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were both plots and attempts on the life of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro during three American presidencies, the chairman of the Senate intelligence committee said Sunday.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said on ABC's 'Issues and Answers' that former Central Intelligence Director Richard Helms told his committee in secret testimony that there had been attempts on Castro's life.

"When this report comes out you will find both plots and attempts and they span many years. They span the years from the (Dwight D.) Eisenhower administration through the (John F.) Kennedy administration and into the (Lyndon B.) Johnson administration," Church said.

But Church said his committee had not been able to find any hard evidence that any of the presidents were aware of the plots or attempts on Castro.

Church said his committee will recommend a law prohibiting such assassination attempts which, he said, apparently are not illegal under American law. Asked whether he felt there could be prosecutions of any CIA personnel for other activities of the past which violated law. Church said the Justice Department is looking into this matter.

The guerrilles fought their way to the Formosa airport, where for a while they reportedly held the provincial governor captive, the reports said. He was freed unharmed.

At about the time of the raid, another group of guerrillas seized a Boeing 737 of Aerolineas Argentinas on a domestic flight and ordered the pilot to land at the Formosa airport, the reports said.

There they ordered the passengers off and fought off soldiers and policemen while the guerrillas on the ground boarded the plane.

The jetliner then took off and headed north toward the Brazilian border, the official reports said. But running short of fuel, the short-range jet turned back and made an emergency landing in a field near Rafaela, 350 miles north of Buenos Aires, Telam said.

Aerial Dogfight Howling Success

Snoopy, cagey as ever, was unruffled by the gleam that turned mean in the cursed Red Baron's eyes.

The droll beagle appeared in the fur Sunday, proving he was no dog's fool when pitted against the notorious baron in the aerial "Dogfight of the Century" staged over Lincoln.

Knowing his enormous nose wouldn't fit in his Sopwith Camel (possible propeller damage to the wet end, you see) Snoopy took "dogfight" seriously but not literally. He craftily conscripted his own pilot to fly the British bi-wing.

important reasons why

Rising fuel costs have forced your Lincoln Electric System to raise their rates for the third time in the last 18 months. You are not happy about it and neither are we. Of course, coal and oil are not the only fuels that we use in producing electricity. We also use water for hydro power and fissionable materials for atomic power. However, we have exhausted new ways to secure more hydro power, and technology has yet to solve all the problems related to the production of nuclear power so that it's full potential can be realized. We're working on it, but at present, coal is our best and most plentiful source of fuel. Today's coal prices have risen over 200% from 10 years ago.

As a result, we must raise your rates in order to support the debt service of the funds used in generation of additional power. whether it be in new construction, transmission, or outright purchase of power. Every year, new demands for service are being placed on your electric utility. We cannot risk insufficient electric supplies when more people and businesses are becoming more dependent upon it.

How high is electricity?

It's still a good buy. Remember back in 1950 when bread cost 15# a loaf, movies were 75#, and a new Chevrolet was about $1,800? Electricity at that time cost about 2f per kilowatt-hour. Now, in 1975, bread is about 60%, a movie is $2.50, and that car now costs $5,000. Electricity is still only about 21/24 per kilowatt-hour.

Yes, electric rates are higher, but we'll continue to keep them. at the lowest levels that will ensure a continued reliable power supply for the community.

The victims were identified as Donald Wayne Robertson, 13: James Robertson, 11; Emanuel Robertson, 2; Sherry Robertson, James Hill, 7.

Authorities said Delores Robertson, mother of four of the dres Perez.

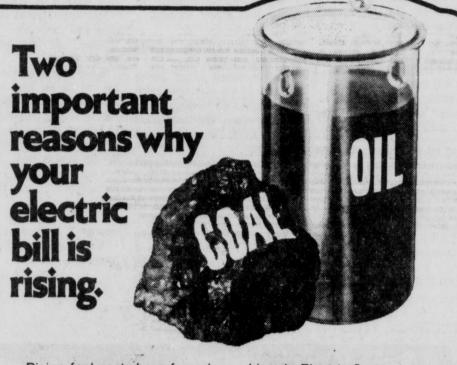

Fire Chief Dan Whitehouse said young David Robertson apparently tried to wake up the other youngsters before getting out of the burning structure. He ran down the road screaming for help and a passing motorist stopped and assisted him.

The motorist notified the Creek County Sheriff's Department of the fire at about 1:15 a.m. Sunday morning. By the time firemen arrived at the scene the house had been consumed by the flames.

The house was two miles south of Sapulpa, a community 20 miles south of Tulsa in northeastern Oklahoma.

Rising fuel costs have forced your Lincoln Electric System to raise their rates for the third time in the last 18 months. You are not happy about it and neither are we. Of course, coal and oil are not the only fuels that we use in producing electricity. We also use water for hydro power and fissionable materials for atomic power. However, we have exhausted new ways to secure more hydro power, and technology has yet to solve all the problems related to the production of nuclear power so that it's full potential can be realized. We're working on it, but at present, coal is our best and most plentiful source of fuel. Today's coal prices have risen over 200% from 10 years ago.

As a result, we must raise your rates in order to support the debt service of the funds used in generation of additional power. whether it be in new construction, transmission, or outright purchase of power. Every year, new demands for service are being placed on your electric utility. We cannot risk insufficient electric supplies when more people and businesses are becoming more dependent upon it.

How high is electricity?

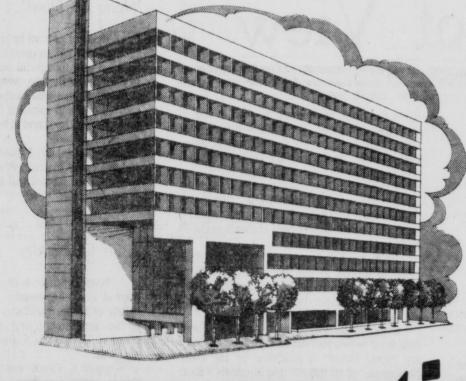

It's still a good buy. Remember back in 1950 when bread cost 15¢ a loaf, movies were 75¢, and a new Chevrolet was about $1,800? Electricity at that time cost about 2¢ per kilowatt-hour. Split Not Necessarily Bad

The Lincoln City Council in recent weeks has split along the narrowist of margins in deciding a number of issues of overriding importance. On those issues, including the selection of a new police chief, the creation of a civilian police review board and saving no to Lincoln participation in a nuclear power plant, the votes were identical — Sue Bailey, Max Denney. Bob Jeambey and John Robinson were on the prevailing side and Dick Baker, Steve Cook and Bob Sikyta comprised the minority.

Does this indicate a deep and longlasting council split? Does such a division among municipal lawmakers bode ill for the city's future? Such questions are being asked by observers of Lincoln city government

It's The Star's thought that there can be as much to worry about from consistent 7-0 votes as there is in the council voting 4-3 down the line. Consistency is the bugaboo which suggests an infertile political environment. But the Lincoln council mixes them up. They do not vote consistently 4-3 nor 7-0. The council agrees on some things and disagrees on others - which is healthy on the surface at least.

We're not sold on the politicalideological cleavage theory, either. That idea holds that the majority is liberal, the minority conservative.

The council majority acted in concurrence with the selection committee's recommendation in confirming Mayor Boosalis's nomination of a police chief. The majority adopted the compromise suggestion by two council members in creating a new police review board. On the other hand, the majority went against the electric power supply program recommended by the Lincoln Electric System board in nixing Lincoln's part ownership in the Ft.

Now, it's not necessarily liberal to want to confirm a choice they perceived as the best police chief Lincoln could get. It's not necessarily liberal to opt for better citizen review of complaints against the police. It's not necessarily liberal to question nuclear economics. Nor is opposition to those poisitions necessarily the mark of

Perhaps what has happened in these instances is a majority bucking of comfortable Lincoln establishment ideas; a kick in the pants of old status quo. The majority can be seen as unafraid to deal with an unknown quantity or untested person or idea. And that is not to say that the four members will be proved right in every case. It should be pointed out, also, that the minority has joined the majority in breaking away from established council

If these actions can be seen as having predominant liberal or conservative flavors, go ahead and so label them. But it

Another factor has been suggested. On the recent controversial issues, the majority views have coincided with the views of Mayor Boosalis. It's thought in some quarters that the motivation behind the voting of at least some members of the minority of three rests in the results of the Boosalis-Schwartzkopf mayoral election last May; that the wrath of the forces who backed Schwartzkopf will be represented by opposition to Mrs. Boosalis' positions and the positions of those council members who seem to agree with her.

Many Refugees Still Wait

Gov. Exon is said to still be considering a decision to sign an agreement with the federal government that would place responsibility for settling Vietnamese refugees with the state. Thus far, some 700 refugees have settled in Nebraska, under the auspices of several communities and volunteer groups. Those additional refugees who might settle in Nebraska would be aided in their move by state officials and with the help of federal funds.

Exon aides say the state administration wants to assure itself there is sufficient community support before signing the agreement and one aide commented, "we Certainly community support for the resettlement of Vietnamese refugees is one factor to be considered. The refugees wouldn't want to end up where they are not wanted.

We had hoped The Star would print corrections of the many inaccuracies and misleading statements in Bob Owens' Sept. 12 column comparing the Daily Nebraskan's "First Down" with the UNL athletic department program; no corrections were run. We hoped, then, that the matter would be dropped after one column; it was not.

Therefore we wish to respond officially to Owens' column. We hope it is not too late to clear up the misunderstandings created, in part, by the Sept. 12 "Sports Signals."

Owens' persistence in calling the athletic department publication "the 'official' program" (see also "Sports Signals," Sept. 17), despite his quotation marks, has the effect of denying "First Down's" legitimacy as a UNL home football game program. 'None So Blind . . . '

Lincoln, Neb. I recently saw an unbelievable incident.

As a city bus stopped to let a young lady with a white cane board, a very thoughtful man got up from a side seat and went to the back of the bus, whereupon a very unthoughtful lady (?) sitting in a front seat jumped to her feet and fairly flew to the vacated seat and spradled herself all over that side seat before the blind lady had time to board. Others made room for the handicapped person.

Through injury, I know what a temporary blindness is and some day that concerted lady may learn the hard way. May God forgive and forbid such cruelty.

A Bit Of History

Lincoln, Neb. "Whatever there is of greatness in the United States, or indeed in any other country, is due to labor. The laborer is the author of all greatness and wealth. Without labor, there would be no government and no leading class, and nothing to preserve." - Ulysses S. Grant, a five-star general at the time of his death.

Ulysses S. Grant, one of the more colorful of American heroes, served four terms in Congress and became commander of the Union forces in the Civil War, 1864. A little over a year after, April 9, 1865, he accepted the surrender of General Robert E. Lee, Confederate commander-in-chief, at Appamattox, Va. He told General Lee to keep his sword, to take his men and their horses and go home, and renew the war-torn land.

After the war, General Grant went into politics and was elected president of the United States in 1968. He served two four-year terms.

The above quotation on labor is from the public declarations of the Civil War general and two-time president. MARIE J. CARVETH

Preparation For Violence

Lincoln, Neb. During the past year two men have been killed in Lincoln by officers in the course of arrests. In both cases there were several officers present at the scene.

We believe that respect for the law is the very foundation of an orderly and peaceful society. By all accounts, neither of the slain men had shown much respect for the law nor for officers. However, the actions of the law officers have been characterized by quickness to resort to shooting. This kind of action is likely to lead to still less trust and respect for the law and enforcers of the law.

We are aware of the fact that the police place their lives in jeopardy for us daily. We appreciate that there are officers who take care to use guns only as a last resort. Can that attitude be encouraged? What kind of training do our officers receive for dealing with violent suspects? Could more preparation be given in methods of handling dangerous people without resort to violence and death.

Given a chance by a President who apparently believes in participatory democracy, The System sometimes works.

Granted the fact that most of the "delegates" to the White House Conference in Omaha were Chamber of Commerce types whose concerns would not exactly coincide with the hopes of the poor or those truly in need, the exchanges between President and citizen were nonetheless heartening.

Seventeen citizens had an opportunity to personally question their President. And they did.

What a remarkable change from the imperial presidency of Richard Nixon. Had he come to Omaha, Nixon would have given a speech, accepted the applause and melted away. There would have been no exchange between President and citizen.

Before Ford's appearance at the conference, he also submitted to a half-hour of questioning from selected local newsmen. That also would not have been on the agenda of a Nixon visit.

But comparing Ford favorably to Nixon is not enough

The President compares favorably to all of his most recent predecessors in terms of openness, measured, in part, by a willingness to be questioned and to communicate.

It is easy to dismiss the White House Conferences as hokey, as political affairs designed to improve the President's image and his 1976 election hopes, as carefully contrived performances before politically "safe" and selected audiences. Easy, but not fair.

It would be good if the President could bear more from people who may really need help, who do not have it so securely "made" as most of the Omaha conference participants. But very real security requirements would make it unwise to just open the doors and let anyone

It would be better to widen the invitation list to include more segments of society - and perhaps this is accomplished in other presidential talk sessions either in or outside the White

But what we saw in Omaha is better much better — than any effort at communication thus far undertaken by a recent American president.

Included in the proceedings were spokesmen for business, labor, education, agriculture, women, environmentalists and at least one representative of the urban poor.

Although it could have been a more balanced mix, it wasn't as exclusionary as it might have been. So it could have been better . . . and it easily might have been much worse. But it was a thousand times better than the exclusionary policy of the most recent President.

Ford appears to have enough confidence in himself to be questioned by Joe Nobody without fearing any loss of prestige or self-esteem.

Good-natured and serene, he is a happy contrast to the brooding loner who performed in public, then apparently fled in private into solitary splendor where he became counsel to his own fears and self-doubts. You can chalk up Ford's White House Conference in Omaha as a political success for the President and his administration.

But it was more than that - and more important than that.

Imperfect as it might have been, it and the nine similar events which preceded are a noble experiment in restoring the presidency to a life-sized role and in reopening the long-lost lines of communication between the President and the citizen.

Here it is, folks . . . the first full week of October. (Fanfare).

Given a chance by a President who apparently believes in participatory democracy, The System sometimes

Granted the fact that most of the "delegates" to the White House Conference in Omaha were Chamber of Commerce types whose concerns would not exactly coincide with the hopes of the poor or those truly in need, the exchanges between President and citizen were nonetheless heartening.

Seventeen citizens had an opportunity to personally question their President. And they did.

What a remarkable change from the imperial presidency of Richard Nixon. Had he come to Omaha, Nixon would have given a speech, accepted the applause and melted away. There would have been no exchange between President and citizen.

Before Ford's appearance at the conference, he also submitted to a half-hour of questioning from selected local newsmen. That also would not have been on the agenda of a Nixon visit.

But comparing Ford favorably to Nixon is not enough.

The President compares favorably to all of his most recent predecessors in terms of openness, measured, in part, by a willingness to be questioned and to communicate.

It is easy to dismiss the White House Conferences as hokey, as political affairs designed to improve the President's image and his 1976 election hopes, as carefully contrived performances before politically "safe" and selected audiences.

But what we saw in Omaha is better much better - than any effort at com-Easy, but not fair. munication thus far undertaken by a recent American president.

Included in the proceedings were spokesmen for business, labor, education, agriculture, women, environmentalists and at least one representative of the ur-

Although it could have been a more balanced mix, it wasn't as exclusionary as it might have been. So it could have been better . . . and it easily might have been much worse. But it was a thousand times better than the exclusionary policy of the most recent President.

Ford appears to have enough confidence in himself to be questioned by Joe Nobody without fearing any loss of prestige or self-esteem.

Good-natured and serene, he is a happy contrast to the brooding loner who performed in public, then apparently fled in private into solitary splendor where he became counsel to his own fears and self-

You can chalk up Ford's White House Conference in Omaha as a political success for the President and his administration.

But it was more than that - and more important than that.

Imperfect as it might have been, it and the nine similar events which preceded are a noble experiment in restoring the presidency to a life-sized role and in reopening the long-lost lines of communication between the President and the citizen.

'None So Blind ...'

I recently saw an unbelievable incident.

As a city bus stopped to let a young lady with a white cane board, a very thoughtful man got up from a side seat and went to the back of the bus, whereupon a very unthoughtful lady (?) sitting in a front seat jumped to her feet and fairly flew to the vacated seat and spradled herself all over that side seat before the blind lady had time to board. Others made room for the handicapped person.

Through injury, I know what a temporary blindness is and some day that conceited lady may learn the hard way. May God forgive and forbid such cruelty.

A Bit Of History

Lincoln, Neb. "Whatever there is of greatness in the United States, or indeed in any other country, is due to labor. The laborer is the author of all greatness and wealth. Without labor, there would be no government and no leading class, and nothing to preserve." - Ulysses S. Grant, a five-star general at the time of his death.

Ulysses S. Grant, one of the more colorful of American heroes, served four terms in Congress and became commander of the Union forces in the Civil War, 1864. A little over a year after, April 9, 1865, he accepted the surrender of General Robert E. Lee, Confederate commander-in-chief, at Appamattox, Va. He told General Lee to keep his sword, to take his men and their horses and go home, and renew the war-torn land.

After the war, General Grant went into politics and was elected president of the United States in 1868. He served two four-year terms.

The above quotation on labor is from the public declarations of the Civil War general and two-time president. MARIE J. CARVETH

Preparation For Violence

During the past year two men have been killed in Lincoln by officers in the course of arrests. In both cases there were several officers present at the scene. We believe that respect for the law is the very foundation of an orderly and peaceful society. By all accounts, neither of the slain men had shown much respect for the law nor for officers. However, the actions of the law officers have been characterized by quickness to resort to shooting. This kind of action is likely to lead to still less trust and respect for the law and enforcers of the law.

We are aware of the fact that the police place their lives in jeopardy for us daily. We appreciate that there are officers who take care to use guns only as a last resort. Can that attitude be encouraged? What kind of training do our officers receive for dealing with violent suspects? Could more preparation be given in methods of handling dangerous people without resort to violence and death. This letter was approved by the Lincoln Monthly Meeting of

Friends at a business meeting September 28, 1975 WYNONA V. LEONARD

CHICAGO - Now I know how an archeologist must feel when he finds the mummy of a pharaoh. Or a wildcat oil driller when a gusher comes in.

I collect stories about bureaucracy. And I believe I have made my greatest find. Don't be frightened off by the word "bureaucracy," which often means a tale of complexity. This is pure simplicity. There is this little boy only 12 years old. Stevie Shalita is his name. He lives in Van Nuys, Calif. His father is an engineer.

Stevie likes to mess around with bikes. He finds old bikes, or their parts, that have been thrown away. He hauls the stuff to his parents' garage and tries to put it together and make it work. He's good with mechanical things.

* * *

So he decided to be a businessman. He put a small desk in the garage, a chair behind it, and put a sign above the garage door that said: "Steve's Bike Shop." He was in business.

Naturally, other kids got interested. So Stevie said they could work for him.

They sat around scraping rust off old parts, or trying to make a handlebar fit a frame, or straightening out bent spokes.

Stevie even made money. A man gave him a quarter for fixing a flat. And he sold a part to a regular bikes shop for 50 his employes. He didn't show a profit. But, then, he didn't go bankrupt, either.

When this happened, he paid properly paid.

Any time kids get together, there is bound to be disagreement. One day Stevie fired one of his helpers. He told the kid that he wasn't working hard enough, or something like that. The other kid went home mad. Well, that's the way it is with

The doorbell rang one morning at Stevie's house. His mother, Anne, opened the door and a man in a business suit. carrying a briefcase, was standing there.

"I am from the State Labor Relations Board," the man said. "Yes?" said Mrs. Shalita.

"We have received a complaint," he said.

'About what?" she asked. "From a former employe of Steve's Bike Shop." He said.

Mrs. Shalita thought he was kidding. He didn't smile.

and how he was playing at being in business. She called Stevie into the room. The man shook Stevie's hand. Then Stevie went out to play.

She explained about Stevie

The man sat down, unzipped his brief case, and took out some

'We have to check out all complaints," he said. The complaint had been brought by a former employe of the bike shop. He had not been hissed.

The former employe was the kid from the neighborhood who had been "fired" by Stevie.

For the next hour, the man explained how the laws protect employes. He also said that Stevie could no longer call his project "Steve's Bike Shop" and operate it as a business, without complying with the laws.

It would be wise, he said, if Stevie took down the sign and converted the venture into a "hobby shop." That way he would not run afoul of official restraints. * * The most important matter that had to be settled, he said, was the complaint.

"What do you intend to do about it?" he asked.

"Nothing," said Mrs. Shalita. He suggested a compromise. Stevie should give the other boy something to settle the claim.

How about a set of handlebars? Mrs. Shalita asked Stevie if he agreed to the terms.

"Sure," he said, going back outside to play.

Stevie took down the sign and got rid of his bike parts. He didn't want to be a hobbyist. He wanted to be a businessman and sit behind his little desk. "That was the whole fun of it," his mother said. Now Stevie is into photography. He uses the garage as his darkroom. "Is he running it as a business?" I asked his mother. "Don't even say that," she

A farmer I know evaluated the daily grain market report this week by saying it was all politics. Trying to predict a political work. I would like to try one of market is beyond the ability of most, if not all, farmers. They are confused and angry.

Normally, you could expect the market to be at a year's high at harvest time. This year, in the face of unknown demand by the eastern European nations that have had a bad crop year, this is not so. Even with a fair estimate of their needs, predictions are difficult because political decisions on the amount to be sold are the key to the market

Poland could take quite a bit of U.S. grain if the State Department would allow it. Russia has a lot of grain on order, possibly as much as her antiquated port system really can handle. But some could be shipped overland from Western Europe or via the Polish ports.

Fears that the bottom will drop out of the market would appear unwarranted. Lower prices for grain would almost certainly be countered by a sharp increase in livestock feeding which will soften the downward pressure. Higher prices for fuel and other agricultural crop needs will stiffen farmers' resistance to lower prices.

It's The Festival Time For Makers Of Cheese

By GERRY SWITZER Star Staff Writer

Homemakers may be able to take advantage of special prices and larger selections of cheese on the supermarket shelf during the next two weeks as part of the Wisconsin-Nebraska Cheese

According to Andrea Neu, consumer information services director fot the Wisconsin Cheese Festival, special prices will be available to consumers the weeks of Oct. 6 and Oct. 13.

According to Mrs. Neu, of every $1,000 spent in 1973 for groceries in this country, $17.72 was spent on cheese - the consumption of which has increased more than 80% since 1959.

Per capita U.S. cheese consumption was eight pounds in 1959, while the per person consumption grew to 14.5 pounds in 1974 with indications of a further increase in 1975.

Convenience, versatility, economy, availability and nutritious value have made cheese one of the most popular convenience foods on the market, Mrs. Neu said.

Requiring approximately 10 pounds of milk to make a pound of cheese, three-fourths of a pound of cheddar cheese provides the same protein as one pound of beef round steak.

Cheese, like milk, is rich in protein, vitamin A, riboflavin, calcium and phosphorus, she said. And one ounce of cheese has most of the nutritional benefits of an eight-ounce glass of whole milk.

Wisconsin, which is known as the "Cheese Capital," produces about 40% of the nation's cheese, with 95% of this being sold outside Wisconsin, according to Mrs. Neu.

Although the first cheese factory in the United States was built in Oneida County, N.Y., in 1851, the industry gradually moved west; a large concentration of European immigrants settling in Wisconsin.

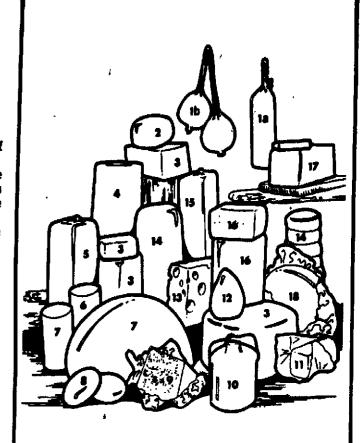

They brought their family secrets for cheesemaking. Cheddar has its roots in Cheddar, England; Port duSalut and Blue in France; Muenster in Germany, and Mozzarella, Provolone and Parmesan in Italy.

Later generations of cheesemakers developed Brick and Jack cheese. Colby originated in Colby, Wis.

Cheese can be categorized into three major types - natural, pasteurized process and cold pack cheese.

Natural cheese is made directly from whole milk, while process cheese is a blend of natural cheeses which have been pasteurized by heating to the point at which all further ripening stops.

Cold pack cheese is a blend of natural cheeses and is not heated during its manufacture. Oftentimes spices and other flavorings are added to cold pack cheese.

And until the last month, the "Neu" label which is manufactured in Hartington was not found on Lincoln and Omaha grocery store

According to Jim Neu, the Neu Cheese Factory, which has been operating for 13 years, has been sending between 100,000 and 150,000 pounds of 40-pound blocks of cheese to Wisconsin for the last two or three years.

He said the cheese is then packaged under various brand labels and distributed throughout the country.

In addition to the Wisconsin market, Neu said he has had a large market for his cheese on the West Coast.

Only recently has he made an effort to break into the Lincoln and Omaha markets, he said, but the sales have been very good in both places.

Claire Burroughs of Shaver's, which operates stores in both Omaha and Lincoln, said Neu's cheese "has been selling very well for us."

At the present time, he said, it is about 20 cents cheaper for 10 ounces than another wellknown brand

However, Neu said he would not emphasize

That cheese you buy at the grocery store may that his cheese is cheaper because the price fluc-"Next month I might have to charge m > mine." he said He said during the 13 years he has been in operation, he has sold cheese to practically all the major firms who package cheese. Growing from about 400,000 pounds produced per year to eight million pounds produced at the Neu plant last year, Neu said because of his limited resources he has not made an effort to expand his market. Burroughs said that Shaver's is "very satisfied" with Neu's cheese which he said compares very well with other popular brands. "I think Neu's "Monterrey Jack" cheese is better than what we've been getting out of Wisconsin," he said. Richard Rice, buyer for Fleming Co., said that his wholesale firm had not purchased cheese from Neu because Fleming had an adequate supply of cheese and was satisfied with its lines. Nash-Finch is also satisfied with the lines it now carries so it saw no reason to buy cheese from Neu, according to Dick Hamblin. He said that he doubted that the price would vary much for comparable products since cheese is priced at a market commodity and transportation costs would not vary from one part of the country to another.

Variation Key To Cheese Tray

A simple cheese tray is easy to create and can provide a true taste treat for family and friends Select one each of mild, robust, spicy and flavored cheeses to satisfy every taste. Keep strong and mild flavored cheeses separate and use separate knives for each variety. For an attractive tray, slice the cheese into various shapes and sizes and combine on a plate with crisp vegetables, such as celery, cucumbers, radishes and carrots. Apple quarters, grapes, pickles, olives and sausage can also add sparkle and contrast. Lightly salted mild crakeers and party rye breads are good cheese accompaniments, while wine served with cheese can turn a snack into a party — after the football game or theatre.

The secret of a perfect marriage between cheese and wine is to see that neither flavor dominates the other.

Rich, tangy cheeses team most happily with full-bodied red wines, while more delicately flavored cheeses are generally preferred with the light white wines.

The "nutty" flavors of sherry and the herb flavors of vermouth are a delight when served with a mild flavored Cheddar or Swiss, Colby, Muenster, or any spicy-flavored dip.

The white wines accentuate the delicate flavors of Colby, Edam, Gouda or Jack, while the red wines bring forth the best in more flavorful cheeses such as sharp Cheddar, aged Swiss, smoky Provolone, Brick and Port duSalut.

The dessert wines are excellent with medium to robust flavored cheeses such as sharp Cheddar, Bel Paese, Port du Salut and Blue. The sharp cold pack spreads are also especially good partners with these wines.

He said during the 13 years he has been in operation, he has sold cheese to practically all the major firms who package cheese

Growing from about 400,000 pounds produced per year to eight million pounds produced at the Neu plant last year, Neu said because of his limited resources he has not made an effort to expand his market. Burroughs said that Shaver's is "very satisfied" with Neu's cheese which he said compares very well with other popular brands.

"I think Neu's "Monterrey Jack" cheese is better than what we've been getting out of Wisconsin," he said. Richard Rice, buyer for Fleming Co., said that his wholesale firm had not purchased cheese from Neu because Fleming had an adequate supply of cheese and was satisfied with its lines.

Nash-Finch is also satisfied with the lines it now carries so it saw no reason to buy cheese from Neu, according to Dick Hamblin.

He said that he doubted that the price would vary much for comparable products since cheese is priced at a market commodity and transportation costs would not vary from one part of the country to another.

Variation Key To Cheese Tray

A simple cheese tray is easy to create and can provide a true taste treat for family and friends. Select one each of mild, robust, spicy and flavored cheeses to satisfy every taste. Keep strong and mild flavored cheeses separate and use separate knives for each variety. For an attractive tray, slice the cheese into various shapes and sizes and combine on a plate with crisp vegetables, such as celery, cucumbers, radishes and carrots. Apple quarters, grapes, pickles, olives and sausage can also add sparkle and contrast. Lightly salted mild crakeers and party rye breads are good cheese accompaniments, while wine served with cheese can turn a snack into a party - after the football game or theatre.

The secret of a perfect marriage between cheese and wine is to see that neither flavor dominates the other.

Rich, tangy cheeses team most happily with full-bodied red wines, while more delicately flavored cheeses are generally preferred with the light white wines.

The "nutty" flavors of sherry and the herb flavors of vermouth are a delight when served with a mild flavored Cheddar or Swiss, Colby, Muenster, or any spicy-flavored dip.

The white wines accentuate the delicate flavors of Colby, Edam, Gouda or Jack, while the red wines bring forth the best in more flavorful cheeses such as sharp Cheddar, aged Swiss, smoky Provolone, Brick and Port duSalut.

The dessert wines are excellent with medium to robust flavored cheeses such as sharp Cheddar, Bel Paese, Port du Salut and Blue. The sharp cold pack spreads are also especially good partners with these wines.

Some Cool Tips To Prevent Fires

The second secon

statistics here you, please read this an way. One fact might stick in your mind that could save your life:

Last year approximately 12,-000 Americans perished in nearly three million fires. And in Canada, there were nearly 900 deaths caused by approximately 79.000 fires.

A large percentage of those who died were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes."

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1. Smoking 2. Electrical wiring 3. Heating and cooking equip-

4. Children playing with matches

5. Open flames and sparks

6. Flammable liquids 7. Suspected arson 8. Chimneys and flues

9. Lightning 19. Spontaneous ignition The total loss due to fire in 1973 was an estimated $3,001.-000,000 in the U.S.A. and $254 million in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life: —Be sure your cigarette is out.

Matches, too. And never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children. -Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed. -Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes. -Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional. -Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

-Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

-Never smoke in bed. -Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

Remember:

dear abby

extinguichers put out 97 per cent of all the fires on which they are sprayed, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher and keep it handy in your kitchen, or he a sport and buy one for your cottage, car, boat, and the back bedroom.

More recently, some excellent fire-detection systems have become available to homeowners. Ask your local fire marshall about them.

NOW, in case of fire: If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. It it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window. But first alert the rest of the household.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure — not even the family pet - is worth risking a human

National Commander Addresses State VFW

Ogallala (AP)—Thomas C. 'Pete' Walker of New London, Conn., national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was principal speaker at a weekend meeting of the have to fight each time pro-Nebraska Department.

Nearly 300 Nebraska veterans and their wives attended the three-day meeting which ended Sunday.

Walker said Saturday night: that "during this bicentennial year of our great Republic it is both appropriate and necessary that we all remember that it was the citizen soldier, the patriot, who rallied when called upon to win our cherished freedom and independence 200 years ago." "So, it has been in each subsequent conflict, threatening our liberty and democratic way of life."

Walker went on to say there is nothing new in the idea of recognizing faithful wartime service.

"It has roots in the ancient days, but of more importance to us, it began in Plymouth Colony over 150 years before the founding of this country," Walker

He said a man disabled in the service of the colony received lifetime support from the grateful people of that colony. He asked then, "Why do we grams are reviewed?" He also asked, "Why must we marshal our forces to support an override by the U.S. Congress of a presidential veto of the education assistance of Vietnam veterans?" Walker also talked of pension cuts to veterans, unemployment rates for veterans, Veterans Administration hospitals with underpaid doctors and the inadequacy of national cometeries.

Last year approximately 12,-000 Americans perished in nearly three million fires. And in Canada, there were nearly 900 deaths caused by approximately 79,000 fires.

A large percentage of those who died were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

- 1. Smoking
- 2. Electrical wiring 3. Heating and cooking equip-

- 5. Open flames and sparks
- 6. Flammable liquids 7. Suspected arson

Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

-Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

-Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

-Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

-Never smoke in bed -Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Remember:

NOW, in case of fire:

If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. It it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window. But first alert the rest of the household.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a

Defense Key To Kansas -Husker Game, Says Scout Zoffuto

Star Sports Writer There was little doubt who was the happlest person in the press box Saturday at Memorial Stadium after the Kansas-Wisconsin football score was announced.

"Sure, I'm real excited," said Mike Zoffuto, who coaches the Kansas offensive line and runs the scout defensive team, after Kansas demolished Wisconsin, 41-7 Saturday at Madison.

"I saw the Missouri-Wisconsin game last week and I knew we couldn't make any mistakes and win against Wisconsin," said Zoffuto, who was scouting the Huskers in a 31-16 win over Miami for head coach Bud Moore. "Our young kids (only six senior starters) like to play. They aren't afraid to pay the price it takes to win."

Kansas, which dropped an 18-14 decision to Washington State, has won its last three games. KU stopped Kentucky, 14-10: Oregon State, 20-0 and Wisconsin.

'The first week was the first time our team played together with its new offense," he noted. "The next week, we played a good football team at Kentucky and our defense was outstanTHE LINCOLN STAR-

*Our defense continued to play well and the offense looked a little better against Oregon State," he added. "Against Wisconsin, we must have played real well."

Nevertheless, Zoffuto knows the Jayhawks will face a difficult chore Saturday when they invade Lincoln to meet NU in the Big Eight Conference opener for both schools.

"KU will be coming into a stadium and playing before 76,-

"We can't make any mistakes if we're going to compete. I'm just talking about competing not even winning. I'm sure our kids will come up here wanting to win or they wouldn't come.

"But this is what football is all about-playing in front of 76,000 people in red," he added.

While the Jayhawks have gained experience in each game, perhaps the biggest reason for the KU improvement has been quarterback Nolan Cromwell.

Cromwell, a 6-2 junior, began the season as a free safety, but was switched to quarterback for the Oregon State game. Against the Beavers, he rushed for 294 yards, eclipsing the former one-game KU rushing mark of Gale Sayers.

Against Wisconsin, he scored two touchdowns and marched the KU wishbone attack for three more scores, proving that Moore's strategy is obviously working.

"Cromwell's a good athlete, but it was a hard decision to move him in the season," Zoffuto said. "I think the coach deserves a lot of credit for being so patient with him. He must have played a great game against Wisconsin from all indications.

The rabbit-like Reds stole a playoff record seven bases and thoroughly humiliated the Pirates, 6-1, to move within one victory of clinching their third NL pennant in the last six years. The Reds, who won Saturday's game season was the best in major 8-3, hold a 2-0 edge in the best-offive series and can wrap up the championship Tuesday night in Pittsburgh when the series reșumes.

The Reds grabbed a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning when Tony Perez unloaded a two-run homer off left-hander Jim Rooker, but it was really the club's amazing efforts on the basepaths that contributed most to the Pirates' downfall.

Ken Griffey, Dave Concepcion and Joe Morgan were the main culprits in the Reds' "steal-a-thon," with each of them setting up one run with their daring exploits.

Griffey was the most troublesome for the Pirates, stealing three bases to equal the major league playoff record set by Morgan in Saturday's game. Concepcion chipped in with two steals while Morgan and George Foster each had one.

As important to the victory as the base-stealing antics was the pitching of Norman and reliever Rawly Eastwick, who combined pitches and gave up only four hits over the first six innings before departing with a sore finger. Eastwick then intimidated them with fastballs over the final three innings, surrendering only a harmless double to Richie Zisk in the ninth.

The Pirates, who had a season's batting average of .262, have now collected just 13 hits in the two games. Their only run Sunday came in the second inning when Willie Stargell doubled, moved to third on a wild pitch by Norman and scored as Hebner bounced into a force play.

And while the Pirates' offense hasn't been much, neither has the defense been anything to rave about. Once again the Pirates were not charged with any errors in Sunday's game, but some indecision in the outfield set up two runs in the fourth that enabled the Reds to boost their

The Reds grabbed a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning when Tony Perez unloaded a two-run homer off left-hander Jim Rooker, but it was really the club's amazing efforts on the basepaths that contributed most to the Pirates' downfall.

Ken Griffey, Dave Concepcion and Joe Morgan were the main culprits in the Reds' "steal-a-thon," with each of them setting up one run with their daring exploits.

Griffey was the most troublesome for the Pirates, stealing three bases to equal the major league playoff record set by Morgan in Saturday's game. Concepcion chipped in with two Foster each had one.

"You've got to concede a lot of stolen bases to Morgan (67 for the season) and Griffey, well, he beat out 38 infield hits this year, so you know he can fly. Some of it is just plain speed. All this running has gotten me emotionally high and the Pittsburgh adrenalin is flowing.

Whatever it is that gets the Reds going, Pirates catcher Manny Sanguillen hasn't been able to stop them. The Reds have stolen a perfect 10-for-10 against Sanguillen in the two playoff games.

talized the Pirates with off-speed pitches and gave up only four hits over the first six innings before departing with a sore finger. Eastwick then intimidated them with fastballs over the final three innings, surrendering only a harmless double to Richie Zisk in the ninth.

The Pirates, who had a season's batting average of .262, have now collected just 13 hits in the two games. Their only run Sunday came in the second inning when Willie Stargell doubled, moved to third on a wild pitch by Norman and scored as Hebner bounced into a force play.

And while the Pirates' offense hasn't been much, neither has the defense been anything to rave about. Once again the Pirates were not charged with any errors in Sunday's game, but some indecision in the outfield set up two runs in the fourth that enabled the Reds to boost their lead to 4-1.

NCAA Favors

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A study committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has recommended a four-team collegiate football playoff to follow postseason bowl activity, The Associated Press learned Sunday night.

Grid Playoffs

A source said the recommendation by the committee, which met Sunday prior to a threeday session of the NCAA Council beginning here this week, is not unanimous.

If adopted as proposed, the source said, the playoffs would be staged during two January weekends among Division 1 teams selected by a method not yet decided.

The national playoff proposal has been debated among NCAA member schools for several years. The study committee is chaired by Ernest Casale of Temple.

If the proposal is accepted by the NCAA Council, the source said, it will most likely be voted on by delegates to the NCAA Convention here next January.

"Mr. Mike McCormack put across his point very emphatically and we accepted what he said as constructive criticism," linebacker Bill Bergey said after the Eagles shocked the Washington Redskins 26-10 Sunday in their National Football League game. It was Philadelphia's first victory of the season and Washington's first loss. It also was the first time since 1967 that the Eagles had beaten the Redskins.

CU's Mallory Blasts NCAA Rule

From News Wires Colorado coach Bill Mallory says 50 factors contributed to the Buffaloes' 21-20 loss to Oklahoma and 48 of them relate visiting teams. a thank you note," Mallory said. "I don't know who thought that rule up . . . we were down to one wingback. It's just ridiculous."

Mallory's other two factors? One was Oklahoma's Joe Washington, who returned a punt 74 vards for one touchdown and scurried 11 yards for another. The other was Sooner defensive end Jimbo Elrod, who made 15 tackles.

In the first Big Eight Conference game of the season, defense dominated the collision between two of the nation's undefeated, offensive giants.

Colorado, the last team to defeat the Sooners 33 games ago, had a chance to snap the string with 1:19 remaining, but Mallory changed from a gambling attitude to conservative. He called on soccer-style kicker Tom Mackenzie, who had hit on 39 of 41 extra point to the NCAA's 48-player limit for attempts. The kick sailed wide. Why go for a tie?" Mallory 'We ought to send the NCAA said. "Right now, it's early in heralded, proved for the second straight week that Jayhawk coach Bud Moore has found a gold mine in quarterback Nolan Cromwell, the converted safety, who ran for 187 yards on 20 carries and helped annihilate the Badgers.

Missouri, ranked No. 5, playing without injured Tony Galbreath, was no match from the outset for the 12th-ranked Wolverines. K-State was not supposed to beat sixth-ranked Texas A&M, wasn't even supposed to stay on the same field with the Aggies, but didn't begin to yield until late in the third quarter.

The remaining three Big Eight clubs scored victories although 15th-ranked Oklahoma State just got by Texas Tech, 17-16. Fourth-ranked Nebraska routed Miami of Florida, 31-16, and Iowa State clobbered Utah, 31-3. The weekend action left Oklahoma, Nebraska and O-State the only Big Eight teams with spotless records. Missouri, K-State and Colorado fell out of the unbeaten ranks.

Joe Washington was the difference between Oklahoma and Colorado. The elusive Sooner ran for 100 yards on punt returns, gained 89 yards on 16 and set up a third with a 19-yard run. Billy Waddy's eight-yard touchdown reception from Dave Williams gave the Buffs their chance to get even.

Cromwell hit the end zone on runs of 2 and 1 yard. Kansas moved ahead for good with a 14point second quarter. The Jayhawks rushed for 452 yards.

Trailing 31-0, Missouri avoided a shutout on Pete Woods' fiveyard pass to Charles Douglass with 1:07 left. Michigan stacked 372 yards rushing against the Tiger defense.

Kansas State's defense, on the field too long, finally gave way to the Aggies, who entered the game with the nation's best defense, in the third period. The Aggies rolled 80 yards to break the scoreless tie.

Oklahoma State finally beat the Red Raiders with a 45-yard drive, touched off by a fumble recovery, and Abby Daigle's rushes, scored two touchdowns extra point. Mike Mitchell scored from five yards out to square matters for the Cowboys in the fourth quarter.

Reserve quarterback Vince

Ferragamo threw a 40-yard TD pass to Bobby Thomas and led three other successful drives as Nebraska, trailing at the half, subdued a stubborn Miami Iowa State, its defense superb, took a 21-0 lead over Utah using the running of Jim Wingender and Mike Williams as its big offensive weapons. Wingender rushed for 169 yards and Williams for 102.

The Big Eight's record against outside competition this season is 26-4. This week's schedule:

Friday night . . . Colorado at Miami, Fla.

Saturday ... Iowa State at Kansas State; Oklahoma State at Missouri; Kansas at Nebraska: Oklahoma vs. Texas at Dallas.

Miller Rallies To Win Kaiser

NAPA, Calif. (AP) - Johnny Miller, pausing to wave to his children at play on the lawn of his golf-course home, cruised through brilliant fall weather with a three-under-par 69 and scored a front-running, three stroke victory Sunday in the Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

Miller's 272 total, 16 under par on the 6,828 yard north course at the Silverado Country Club, provided him with his fourth triumph of the season and 15th of his remarkable young career. This one came relatively easily. He led all the way in the final round, by two or more strokes most of the time.

Perhaps more importantly, from the standpoint of personal prestige, it enabled Miller to Change Aids Yastrzemski

BOSTON (UPI) - Carl Yastrzemski changed his batting stance, altered his swing and wound up with a homer and a double Sunday in the Boston Red Sox' second straight victory over the Oakland A's in the American League playoff series.

Yastrzemski, bothered by a sore shoulder the past month, said he worked the past five days to find a new swing to ease the pain. He dropped his hands to the belt and swung from that position when he hit a two-run homer off Vida Blue in the fourth and doubled off Rollie Fingers in the sixth.

Both hits were to left field, an area the left-handed Yastrzemski had abandoned this season. The homer was his first to the opposite field in 1975.

"Off Vida Blue, with his speed, I was just trying to hit the ball and he threw me a fast ball out over the plate," said Yastrzemski who had batted .202 since the All-Star break. "And against Fingers I just hit the ball

Nicklaus, winner of the Masters, PGA and three other titles this year, already has clinched the money title. He picked up $6,300 and pushed his total to $298,149 for the season. Those will be the final figures for both Nicklaus and Miller, who completed their American schedules for the year.

Poll: Confidence In Most Key Institutions Continues To Drop greater than that of any other

By LOUIS HARRIS

Confidence levels in the leadership of most major American institutions continued to drop in the past year. Doctors. educators and those running television news stand at the head of the list in generating public confidence, while Congress, the executive branch of the federal government and leaders of organized labor finish at the bot-

Great Deal of Confidence

Louis Harris All-Time Lows Seen

Perhaps the most striking single result is that eight of the 12 institutions asked about have hit all-time lows since the Harris Survey first began asking about them in 1966: doctors, the U.S. Supreme Court, the military, major companies, law firms, organized labor, the executive branch of the federal govern-

In the case of television news, the public's confidence has risen four points in the last year but is still below the Watergate period of 1973, when the confidence in TV news reached an all-time major institution in the survey. high of 41%. The press also rose marginally in confidence this past year but is still below its high water mark of 1973.

The most sizable slippage can be noted for government. Both the Congress and the executive branch of the federal government have fallen off to a lowly 13% level of confidence in them. The U.S. Supreme Court, caught up in a number of controversial rulings on school busing, once again has dipped in confidence. even though it has acquired a substantial number of conservative justices appointed by former President Nixon. The military continues on the downside, recording in this latest survey no more than 24% who express high confidence in them. The loss of public esteem for the military since 1966 has been

This lack of confidence in government, of course, explains why the public has become skeptical of almost any sweeping governmental solution to the problems that beset the country. At the same time, especially in the case of the economy, the public loudly complains that there is too much inaction as inflation heats up again and unemployment seems not' to be declining. However, since business also has reached new lows in public confidence, there is little faith that the private sector can turn the country around.

In short, there is a leadership vacuum in this country across the board, which should make the 1976 election more wide open than at any time in recent vears.

Poll: Confidence In Most Key Institutions Continues To Drop

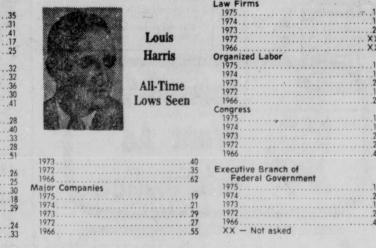

By LOUIS HARRIS

Confidence levels in the running are concerned, would leadership of most major American institutions continued to drop in the past year. Doctors, educators and those running television news stand at the head of the list in generating public confidence, while Congress, the executive branch of the federal government and leaders of organized labor finish at the bottom.

Recently, the Harris Survey asked a cross section of 1,579 adults nationwide:

Perhaps the most striking single result is that eight of the 12 institutions asked about have hit all-time lows since the Harris Survey first began asking about them in 1966: doctors, the U.S. Supreme Court, the military, major companies, law firms, organized labor, the executive branch of the federal government and Congress.

In the case of television news, the public's confidence has risen four points in the last year but is still below the Watergate period

TV news reached an all-time high of 41%. The press also rose marginally in confidence this past year but is still below its high water mark of 1973.

The most sizable slippage can be noted for government. Both the Congress and the executive branch of the federal government have fallen off to a lowly 13% level of confidence in them. The U.S. Supreme Court, caught up in a number of controversial rulings on school busing, once again has dipped in confidence, even though it has acquired a substantial number of conservative justices appointed by former President Nixon. The military continues on the downside, recording in this latest survey no more than 24% who express high confidence in them. greater than that of any other major institution in the survey. This lack of confidence in government, of course, explains why the public has become skeptical of almost any sweeping governmental solution to the problems that beset the country. At the same time, especially in the case of the economy, the public loudly complains that there is too much inaction as inflation heats up again and unemployment seems not to be declining. However, since business also has reached new lows in public confidence, there is little faith that the private sector can turn the country around.

In short, there is a leadership vacuum in this country across the board, which should make the 1976 election more wide open than at any time in recent
